

Picking The Future Out Of the Stars

American Woman Who Reads the Skies for Information, Just Like You Read the Newspapers, Says Woodrow Wilson Has All the Attributes of a Perfect Man, and Tells of Her Work.

Woodrow Wilson Born Under Capricorn, Sign of the Perfect Man

Woodrow Wilson was born December 28, 1856. He is now in his Virgo cycle and his Leo year, having been born under the sign of Capricorn.

This, the tenth sign, is said to contain all the attributes of a perfect man, and makes him reflective, calm, zealous and serious.

He has good business ability, is steady, persistent and thorough in his methods. Mercury, seen in the same sign, indicates a nature seldom seen on the surface, and makes it diplomatic, subtle and profound.

The location in the chart of Venus in Aquarius would naturally bring him before the people, and Mars in the same sign, makes him prompt and self-possessed in emergency. It also makes him forcible and determined and not easily persuaded. It is Saturn and Uranus in his chart which have caused his vicissitudes in life, the former giving him sharp reverses and subtle and dangerous enemies, and the latter giving danger of accidents, wounds or violence.

The first three months of 1914 will bring adverse conditions to him. Danger and opposition and serious complications in his affairs are shown for 1915.

Uranus in his chart represents purified will and shows ability for discrimination, fine judgment and a wisdom which stand him in good stead during the last two years of his administration, when an upheaval is predicted.

trology points out the planets' influences which are in operation without being of themselves the cause of it. Thus it restores to us our responsibility, and proves that character is really destiny."

In her study in her South Side Kansas City home, with the walls lined with books and charts, and a huge telescope set ready for observation of the heavens, Miss Hazard is as busy as a bee working out the charts of persons who wish to get a closer understanding of themselves or friends.

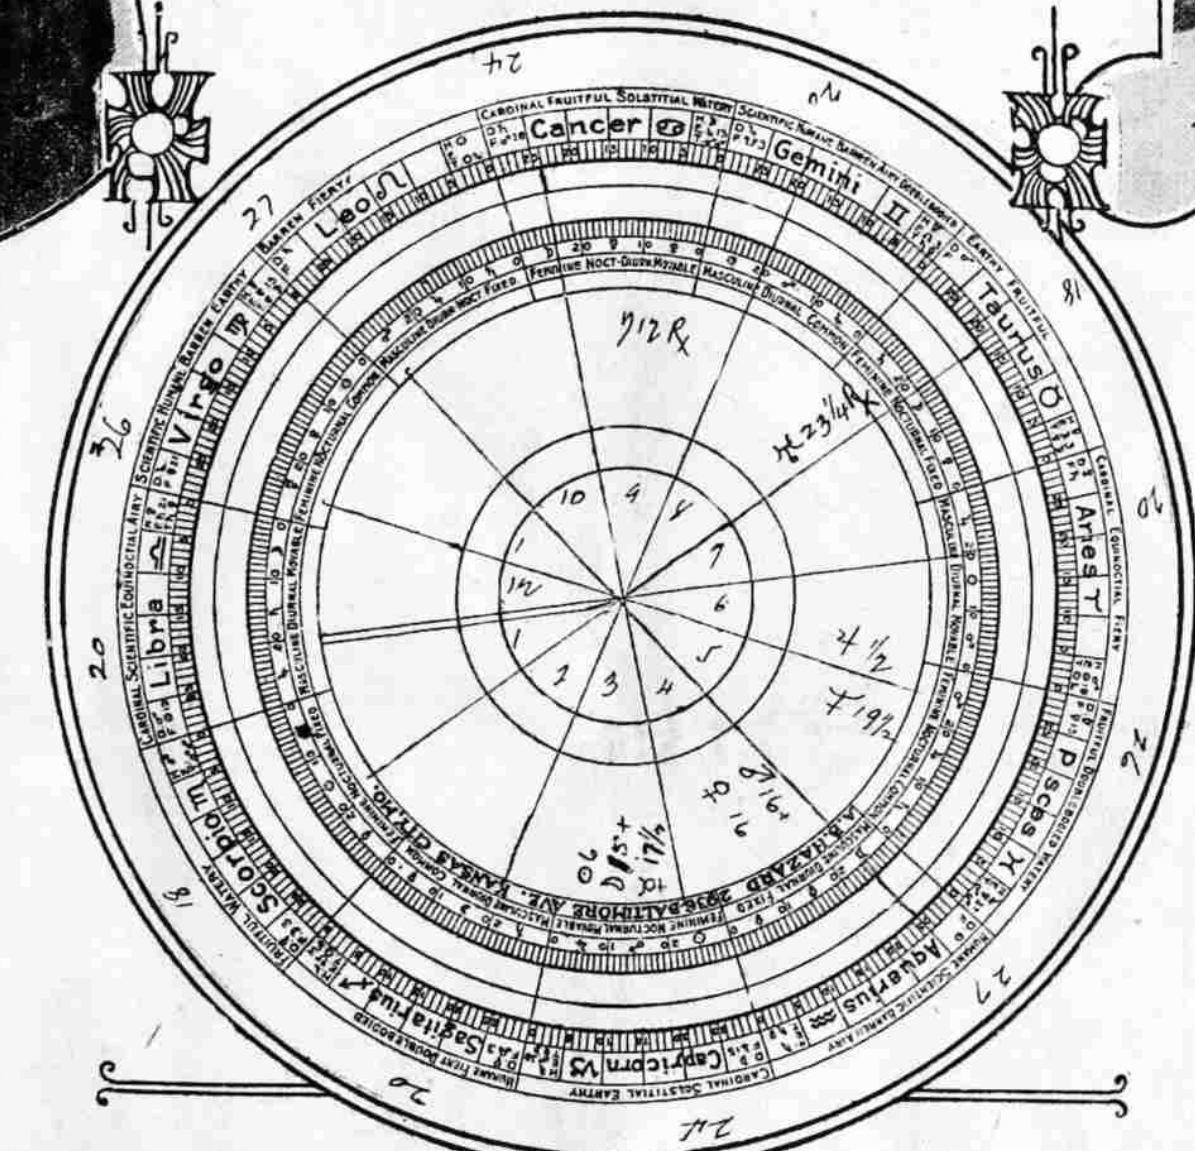

For the readers of the All-American Magazine Miss Hazard made a chart of the stars and cycles influencing the life of President Wilson, and explained how each person may read from the stars his own characteristics.

"Those who look into the stars for their signs of character," Miss Hazard says, "must remember that each has his own planetary position, because of the exact hour and spot of his birth, and that the cycles, each of seven years' duration, are secondary to the planetary positions. Besides being dominated by a planetary sign, each of the seven years of the cycle is under a separate sign of the zodiac."

Thus, she explains, one born under the sign of Aries is under the Aries cycle for the first seven years of his life.

The twelve cycles are: Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, Virgo, Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius and Pisces, in the regular order.

However, the reverse order applies when the period is reduced to years. Aries commencing with Pisces following, then Aquarius, Capricorn, Sagittarius, etc.

With this explanation any one can work out his own astrological chart from the cyclical standpoint, by reading carefully the principal characteristics of the several signs which follow.

The explanation that such a chart would be secondary to one's own personal chart, cast with reference to the place of his birth and the exact hour, must be remembered. The astrological conditions obtaining each moment are different, and those for each material change in geographical location are different, otherwise a monotonous sameness in persons born near the same point, or at the same time, would result. In reality, 1,728 types are born each twenty-four hours.

Chart Casts General Characteristics.

However, general characteristics may be cast with such a chart as here described, with satisfactory accuracy—in fact, with almost startling accuracy.

A further explanation of the use of the chart will make it more easily applicable. A person born on January 1 would be a Capricorn child. His first cycle would be under the sign of Capricorn. However, his first year would be an Aries year. The second year would be under the influence of Pisces, the third Aquarius, the fourth Capricorn, etc.

Following are the dates governed by the signs: Aries, March 21 to April 23; Taurus, April 20 to May 20; Gemini, May 21 to June 20; Cancer, June 21 to July 20; Leo, July 21 to August 20; Virgo, August 21 to September 20; Libra, September 21 to October 20; Scorpio, October 21 to November 20; Sagittarius, November 21 to December 20; Capricorn, December 21 to January 20; Aquarius, January 21 to February 18; and Pisces, February 19 to March 20. The order begins with Aries on March 21 because that is the first day of spring, or, properly, according to nature and the seasons, the new year.

Aries is an active hopeful cycle. It is a good business period, when trouble quickly rights itself. Aries persons are given great energy, move impulsively, have no foresight and are, therefore, sensationally successful and meet with equally sensational reverses.

Taurus is one of the most fortunate cycles of the lifetime. It is one of the best money making periods, also. However, the Taurus person is not given to accumulation, although he handles a great deal of money. Taurus men incline to banking.

Gemini is a restless cycle and usually brings a great deal of travel, or the inclination for travel or change. This tendency stirs the mind to activity, generally inclining toward a change for the better, other signs being in harmony. Gemini persons lack continuity, but are hopeful. However, they will not work, and are traders or gamblers.

The Cancer cycle governs home affairs. Being an unfortunate cycle, however, it reflects illness in the family rather than better conditions.

The Leo cycle awakens the feelings and it is in that cycle, occurring in the youth of life and beyond childhood, that love affairs are likely. At any time, under the Leo cycle, the desire for the expression of feelings is great. Leo persons are fond of their own families, but are blunt and outspoken, and cause enmity by their frankness. They are generous and are gifted with great vitality. They incline toward professional life, usually the law, inasmuch as they can see but one side of a proposition at a time.

Virgo Cycle Is Successful Period.

Push business affairs in the Virgo cycle, for it is a successful period as regards affairs financial. It is not a good health cycle, however, and usually is accompanied by losses and sadness. Virgo persons have great foresight, are intuitive, "long-headed," and, asked for a favor always do more for you than you expect. They are susceptible to kindness. Virgo persons take to philosophy and religion, becoming ministers and physicians.

Libra is the cycle of contradictions and of change. Usually it brings opportunities for marriage or change of affections. Libra persons never reach extreme heights or extreme depths. They are apprehensive, afraid to take a chance, but without reason. A Libra person makes an appointment, but rarely keeps it. They make statesmen and poor politicians.

Scorpio is the worst cycle of life. It brings sickness, financial losses and dangers. Sometimes it brings sudden gains, but that is because of the reflection of its potential opposite, Taurus. Even so, great care should be taken during the Scorpio cycle, both as to affairs of health, of finance and home ties. Scorpio persons either are very good or very bad. They are the world's great healers and surgeons.

The desire to force matters characterizes Sagittarius. It is an aggressive cycle and this ultra aggressiveness sometimes results in great danger. However, it is a good cycle for business, travel and courtship. Sagittarius persons are very blunt, not sentimental, but are loyal and impulsive.

Capricorn is a treacherous cycle, bringing both good and bad influences. It usually inclines to business activity and is a better cycle for men than for women. Capricorn persons oftentimes have great trouble early in their lives. The cycle has much to do with the home, sometimes breaking up homes and often laying the foundation for new homes. Capricorn persons are leaders in any line of business.

Aquarius is likely to bring either honor or disrepute, according to the year signs and the individual planetary conditions. Generally brings new friends. Aquarius persons promise anything, only to forget their promises. They are, however, public spirited and incline toward the professions.

Pisces is the saddest cycle, as Scorpio is the worst. Often brings death, losses and enemies. Sometimes, however, it is saved by its polar opposite, Virgo. Pisces persons are world's best informed persons, although they occupy fewer prominent positions. This last fact is due to their lack of aggressiveness. They are not given to accumulation of wealth, but usually are helping someone else.

1913 NEWPORT GIRL IS ATHLETIC

Golf, tennis, walking, motoring, sailing, driving, swimming and other activities of a pronounced athletic nature are being taken up as never before by the women, both maids and matrons, of Newport.

Positively the athletic activities of the women of the "400" at society's summer capital are something amazing. The premises to evolve in a few seasons a race of Atalantas who will be able to catch the fair young Parisians of the present, no matter how many golden apples they toss back over their shoulders.

An effort has been made to prove that the sylph-like form so arbitrarily demanded by the present fashions is due to the sturdy stay—but no! Athletics is solely responsible.

In the morning, for instance, quite a number of Newport women line up on the tennis courts at the Casino.

There is no question that tennis is a game which takes one about a bit when you go into the thing to win. And that is just the way Newport's young women are taking the game this summer. Indeed, the tournament which they are now holding in the Casino is being participated in by many maidens who have been practising all the past month to get in trim for it.

Among the players are the Misses Edna Barger, Anna Sands, Roberta Willard, Elizabeth Sands, Alexandra Dolan, Frederika Paine, Mimi Scott, Margaret Busk, Louise Scott and Evelyn Leonard.

Following the chase after the elusive tennis ball most of the young women hurry down to the beach for a dip. And they are accompanied by many women of the older set.

There is Mrs. Robert Golet and Mrs. French Vanderbilt. These two well-known women are daily visitors to Bailey's Beach and both are excellent swimmers, showing skill in their aquatic performances that would put to the blush the efforts of many of the younger maidens. And they look remarkably well in their blue and black silk bathing costumes.

Out as far as any of the men swimmers, Mrs. Golet never hesitates to go, for she is a keen lover of thrilling adventures and always has been. She has never been known to take a dare. It will be remembered that Mrs. Golet is one of the very few women in the world who have been on the inside of a submarine boat when it was submerged.

They were discussing the strategic advantages of Newport Harbor, on Narragansett Bay, in a very sedate manner—for Newport's women do talk of other things besides dances and dresses and pet canines—and Mrs. Golet informed Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer that she could not see the usefulness of a submarine boat for reasons which she stated quite clearly, even if they weren't very excellent reasons judged from a naval officer's standpoint.

"One submarine could blow up a battleship," said the Secretary. "You'll have to show me," laughed Mrs. Golet.

"I will if you aren't afraid," responded the Secretary, and that was sufficient dare to arouse the spirit of adventure, which was never very sound asleep in Mrs. Golet.

"I'll go with you, but I thought women were not allowed in the submarines," she responded. And so they aren't, but the Secretary of the Navy did not have to stop at a little thing like that, and therefore the submarine Octopus was next day put through its under water races with the mistress of Ochre Court inside.

So when this is taken into consideration, and also the fact that Mrs. Golet ascended into the blue sky in the balloon St. Louis at the international races at Paris in 1907, her daring in the water will not seem strange.

But she is quite frank and says swimming is the very best method of keeping in athletic trim.

In going to and from the beach some of the women make a regular practice of walking. Mrs. William Roelker thinks nothing of doing her ten miles a day.

It will be remembered that the famous incident between Mrs. Roelker and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish happened while Mrs. Roelker was walking along in front of Newport Casino a few years back. She had just secured her decree of divorce from W. Gould Brokaw of New York, and Newport had not yet opened its official arms to her following this proceeding.

Among those who stood out was Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish. Meeting her face to face, Mrs. Fish, in company with Harry Lehr, refused the pretty salutation that Mrs. Roelker offered her. It was one of the most talked of snubbing ever administered at Newport, and it is said that though the quarrel was soon smoothed over, Mrs. Roelker has never quite forgiven the famous society leader for her action.

But that little incident did not discourage Mrs. Roelker from her pedestrian exploits.

The Willard girls, Roberta and Natalie, are also good walkers, as are Mildred Rivers and Margaret Andrews. Marguerite Caperton, Mrs. J. Frederick Pierson, Jr., and Mrs. W. Goadby Lowe are often seen on the highways swinging along at a good pace, often carrying walking sticks and sometimes accompanied by their pet dogs.

Another famous pedestrian is Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, who is regarded by some the greatest woman financier in the country, and whose efforts with Mrs. Fish in gaining proxies to fight the cause of Stuyvesant Fish against Harriman was the talk of a nation. She once revoked the power of attorney which she had conferred upon her husband, and even turned against Mrs. Fish in an effort to lead Newport society and forced a compromise that gave her unquestioned place.

Her famous "white ball" in 1904 is not yet forgotten, nor her undaunted energy in performing everything she has undertaken.

And Mrs. Oelrichs attributes the fact that she can "keep up" to the excellent exercise of walking.

A surprisingly large number of women are expert motorists, as well as good whips. Margaret Andrews drives a big touring car with remarkable skill.

A skilled whip is Mrs. Burke-Roche, whose divorces have been the most sensational that ever ran the gamut of society's wagging tongue. They include a decree of separation from James Boothby Burke-Roche, who was a brother of Baron Fernoy, an Irish peer, and another decree obtained from Count Aurel Batonyi, a professional "whip," to whom she was secretly married by a New York Alderman. The old skill which Mrs. Burke-Roche learned when she was a girl and which revived when she took to driving Batonyi's famous coach, Good Times, has not deserted her, and in exercising it she has found the key to health which the younger set finds in its tennis and swimming.
